GIRL CYCLISTS PERAL INTO PORTSMOUTH

On Way From Cambridge to Portland, Camping Where Night Catches Them

Portsmouth, N. H., April 5.—Three Cambridge girls, the eldest of them 20 years old, rode their bicycles into Portsmouth today on their way to Portland.

They are Irene Reiner, 18, Pauline Reiner, 19, and Isabelle Reiner, 20, all of Cambridge.

They have been camping out at night wherever darkness overtook them, cooking their own food and making side trips to visit places that interested them. Monday night they slept at Salisbury Beach, wrapped only in a single blanket.

"We were so tired when we got there," explained Miss Reiner, "that we just dropped off anywhere, and slept all night."

ALL-SWEETS

Sunsweet Wash Sunsweet Prunes in warm water. Put into casserole, add boiling water to cover. Let stand ten minutes, then pour off two-thirds of water. Cover and put in a very slow oven or in a warm place on stove and allow to become tender. It will not hurt if this requires several days, cooking only when oven is being used for something else. If you have never used this method, it is well worth trying. No sugar is required. With boiled custard sauce or whipped cream this will be found an excellent dessert.

Baked Prunes: First take 1 cup cooked Sunsweet Prunes that have been pressed through a colander. Beat the whites of 4 eggs until stiff, add 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla and carefully fold in the prune pulp and 1/4 cup chopped walnuts. Pour in an ungreased pudding dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Serve with a custard sauce made of the yolks of 4 eggs and 1 cup milk or with whipped cream.

Sunsweet Sofen: Soften 1 1/2 tablespoons granulated gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water and dissolve in 1/4 cup hot prune juice; add 1/4 cup sugar and 1 cup cold Sunsweet Prunes, stirred and mashed. Stir until mixture begins to jelly; then fold in Cream: 1 1/2 cups cream, beaten very light (but not dry). When the mixture is firm, place in mould decorated with longwise quarters of cooked prunes. This requires 1 1/2 hrs. The juice and grated rind of 1 lemon may be added.

Sunsweet Drain: Drain cooked Sunsweet Prunes. Remove pits and fill centers with the following mixture: 1/4 cup finely chopped raisins, 1/4 cup chopped almonds, 1/4 cup chopped walnuts, 1/4 cup chopped pecans, 1/4 cup chopped hazelnuts, 1/4 cup chopped chestnuts, 1/4 cup chopped figs, 1/4 cup chopped dates, 1/4 cup chopped apricots, 1/4 cup chopped peaches, 1/4 cup chopped plums, 1/4 cup chopped cherries, 1/4 cup chopped apples, 1/4 cup LEWIS

Expect to Identify Her With Gay Leisure Hours of Banker

James Sullivan of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Sullivan, is a student at Milton Academy, Milton, where he is preparing for Harvard. He is in his third year at the school. He has just returned to his studies after spending an Easter vacation in New York.

New York, April 6.—Here are the principal developments in the great Sullivan divorce drama which still holds the center of the stage. A woman of society may be named as a new co-respondent in the divorce case of Mrs. "Pip" Potter Sullivan, the wife of the banker who brought against her by her husband, James A. Sullivan.

This was discovered today when it was learned that Mrs. Sullivan's lawyers are gathering evidence against the woman who figured largely in the leisure hours of the banker's life. It has been previously asserted that the woman of society must be a divorcee, and that she must be a divorcee of the same name as the banker's wife.

It is learned that an Indian boy named "Joe" was a playmate of Alexander Sullivan at the Summer camp near the Three Rivers, Quebec, in 1917. Both boys were then eight years of age.

Alexander became so attached to "Joe" that he brought him to the Sullivan country place that fall. "Joe" became a sort of pet of the household, and the following February, 1917, when Sullivan took his family to the St. Flouts to live, the Indian child went along.

Mrs. Sullivan's lawyers take the position that "Joe" was one of the "children" in the claimed relationship between Mrs. Sullivan and Mr. Sullivan, children and nurse. This boy, now fourteen years old, may be a witness for Mrs. Sullivan.

MRS. SULLIVAN SHOPS. This registry is expected to be an important exhibit in the case. Mrs. Sullivan claimed the charge of illegitimacy, as showing the relationship that existed between Mrs. Sullivan and Mr. Sullivan during the period.

The mystery of the whereabouts of Mrs. Sullivan was cleared here when she appeared in a Fifth Avenue modish shop.

STAR SUES

Former Maiden Auditorium Lady, who sued for divorce.

Adelyn B. Boyden, former Maiden Auditorium lady, who sued for divorce, is expected to testify in the case.

Adelyn B. Boyden, who was a leading woman of the stock company playing the Maiden Auditorium, is awaiting a decision in her suit for divorce from William E. Boyden of Somerville.

The suit was tried in Rockland, Me., the actress's home. Decision was returned by Judge J. W. Smith.

Mrs. Boyden based her application for divorce on alleged infidelity, cruelty and failure of her husband to support her.

Descriptive testimony was given to the first charge of the wife, but the Knox County public waiting counted on hearing this testimony, was cleared out of the court by agreement, the evidence was taken in chambers.

The maiden actress in her testimony said that she believed that Mr. Boyden brought her to the Maiden Auditorium, and the following February, 1917, when Sullivan took his family to the St. Flouts to live, the Indian child went along.

MISS ROBERTSON TELLS WHY SKIRTS ARE SHORT

Washington, April 6.—Alice Robertson, Ohio, who was a member of Congress, today gave her impression of the "cigarette smoking women of the East" with their pouge and knee skirts.

"You can see plenty of women in the street with very short skirts shorter than they should be," she said. "I have seen more women with short skirts than I have seen with long skirts."

London, April 6.—An eleven-hour settlement of the great coal strike seemed suddenly possible early this afternoon, when the miners' officials announced through their spokesman that they had accepted Premier Lloyd George's invitation to hold another conference to discuss a settlement.

The move did not, however, interfere with the meeting of the triple alliance, executive committee of the House, which was expected to meet at 10 o'clock this morning.

Transport workers of the transport workers' union, who have been on strike since last week, are expected to return to work today.

Many strikers were injured in a battle between the miners and the police in the town of Llanelli, Wales, today.

COUNSEL GLASH OVER GIRL'S TESTIMONY

Longe Defence Fights Admision of Story Told by Daughter to Police

"I was lying on a sofa when he came in, and he said to me, 'What was said?' asked the judge."

It was here that the fight over the girl's testimony started. Attorney Preston, representing Longe, objected on the ground that as the state has not shown that any crime has been committed.

After a word was lasting fifteen minutes, Judge Motion advanced court to take the question under advisement.

The hatred of the girl for the bitter wife has not for her at the trial was shown plainly as she rode with a sigh from the witness chair at the adjournment, and turned to smile at her father sitting in the dock.

It is the intention of the state to place on record the story told by the girl which led to her arrest. Her story, the state claims, was the effect that on the evening of May 19, 1919, the girl saw her father and three other men had waylaid her, killed and wounded her and had thrown the body into the Chestnut River.

Attorney-General Archibald has declared that the prosecution will introduce evidence tending to show that this story was true only in part, that the girl had no accomplices in the crime and that the spot on the river bank at which she said the body was thrown into the water was not the correct one, but that the murder had been committed near the Longe house and the body thrown into the stream from the back porch of the house.

Three witnesses preceded the girl on a stand today. They were Dr. J. C. Carey of Fair Haven, the first medical man to see the body of the girl; Patrick Burke and Frank Brown, the latter a nephew of Brown, who told of having dragged the river for the body.

Recipe to Make a Gray Hair Remedy

A. L. Paulsen, M. D., who has practiced medicine in New York City for many years, gave out the following recipe for a home-made gray hair remedy: "Gray, streaked or faded hair can be quickly turned black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the following remedy that you can make at home: 'Merely get a box of Orlon powder at any drug store. It costs very little and is easy to use. Dissolve it in 3 oz. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use and a gold bond guarantee come in each box. 'It is safe, does not rub off, is not sticky or greasy, and leaves the hair soft. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger.'"

FATHER FOUND TWO-YEAR-OLD BOY VERY SICK

Was Thin, No Appetite, Had Swollen Lips, Stomach Pains, Itching Nose

A hardy woodsman and enthusiastic fisherman, Joseph K. Lane, of Lincoln, Maine, has a very interesting record to report. He writes: "As a boy, thirty-seven years ago, I began to take Dr. Trust's Elixir. Once after six months hauling logs, I came out of the woods and found my two-year-old boy very sick. He was thin, had no appetite, had swollen lips, pains in stomach, an itching nose, was suffering from constipation, for months. 'I had not been in the house an hour when an elderly lady—a good neighbor—came in and told my wife to get a bottle of Dr. Trust's Elixir, saying she had seen numbers of similar cases which it had relieved. 'My boy was given a half dozen doses of Elixir when he passed a lot of little worms, and right away began to show improvement. He began soon to eat with a relish, play around and look healthy. He did not have to take a full bottle, and in later years, whenever he got off his feed, a few doses would straighten him out quick. 'When I get constipated, a couple of teaspoons of Dr. Trust's Elixir will do it.'"

"My son is grown up now and has a family of six children, and he has practically raised his family on Dr. Trust's Elixir. The children go out and get hold of something not good for them. It's hard to watch all the children, and so when they eat something they shouldn't and get sick, the Elixir is given and the family is put in good shape again. 'I have read in the papers you have to take a half dozen bottles of some remedies, but you don't have to do this with Dr. Trust's Elixir. Sim-

Retail Store Bowlers at First Banquet

Some of the ideas and personalities that interested Artist Harmony most at the dinner of the Boston Retail Store Bowling League.

The Boston Retail Store Bowling League completed the most successful season in the history of the league by winning last night when the bowlers of the league gathered in the Fidelity Club for the first annual banquet of the league.

President Joseph Doyle of R. H. White Company was toastmaster and awarded the prizes. William Plimley's Sons Company won first taking first place for the league bowling. Plimley's also led with the high three string and the high team single but were ineligible for more than one prize.

C. F. Hovey Company was next in line for high three string with 1,478 and Leggett-More took high string with 118. All the other teams in the league shared in the prizes awarded to the teams.

Clem Mulvaney of Hovey's led Davy Jones of Plimley's by a fraction of a point for high average with a mark of 27, and Jones won the high individual three-string with 334. J. Murray of Talbot's won high individual single with 123.

The banquet committee was C. Schneider, Plimley's chairman; George Callahan, Houghton-Dutton, Program; C. E. Coyne, Plimley's, arrangements; W. McLeod, Butler's; J. McKim, William Maher, A. Rhimes & Co., and F. Driscoll, Shepard's, entertainment.

The entertainment program was made up of a varied program from the many stores in the league.

her home and told her story in the presence of the judge, Attorney William F. Dwyer of Roxbury. She was nervous and distraught and explained that she did not like to make strangers except in the presence of a member of her family. "This accident, the climax to James H. Henderson's unbecoming attentions to me, happened at the Conbridge Corner office where we were both employed," said the girl. "I was a stenographer. He was a member of the firm, and a salesman since he was discharged from the Canadian army at the close of the war. 'From the first he showed considerable interest in me. I tried to let him know I did not care for his attentions, and wanted only common office politeness. I did not think that he would press his attentions, as I had supposed only girls who were not 'nice' were subjected to such treatment. 'The day I was burned with the

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them. They are gentle on the bowels and act gently but firmly on the bowels and action, clearing the blood and gently purging the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of its effects. All the benefits of nasty, sickening griping, cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with constipation. He found that the student had breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their own color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c—Advertisement.

said I was ready to go out to lunch when Mr. Henderson came in to take charge while I was away. 'He immediately attempted to kiss me. I refused him and he tried to take a kiss by force. He seized me and I fought him off. 'Our struggle took us toward a corner, and in some way I do not know how, the bottle of acid was knocked from a shelf and spilled all over my back and shoulder. 'I was unharmed by the pain and shock. I remember I was rushed to a physician and later to my home. I have been ill ever since. 'Miss Dwyer interrupted herself to bring in the coat and suit she wore the day of the accident. The thick heavy collar was seen through the acid. The ragged edges of the collar in the garment showed red. 'This is a case where dollars mean less than principle,' said the stenographer, and her brother nodded. 'I feel this fight is for every American girl who has to go out and earn her own living. 'Girls who work are entitled to respect as much as girls who stay home. Men forget that sometimes. 'One thing is certain. When I take another position I will insist that it is thoroughly as my employer investigated me. 'I think all girls should be satisfied that the men with whom they work are the kind to treat them with respect before they accept employment. 'For her representative Dwyer, who admitted he advised his sister to bring suit against Henderson, took up the conversation: 'Things like this, having the shocking accident which he told my sister, are far too common,' he said.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

PERSHING TO ORGANIZE BIG RESERVE

Leader of Expeditionary Forces Slated for Directorship of New Branch

Washington, April 5.—General John J. Pershing, who headed the greatest expeditionary force in the history of the world, is slated to become the moving spirit in the organization of America's army, according to reports in military circles today.

Secretary of War Weeks is a firm believer that a great reserve to the most important second line of defense and will play an important part in preserving national security.

Impressed by General Pershing's work in France, he is understood to have decided to call upon the general to lead his genius to the development of this branch of the service.

Secretary Weeks is understood to want a trained reserve of 300,000 officers and men who would be available almost overnight in an emergency.

It has been frequently reported that the general is desired the post of Chief of Staff, but some of his close friends say that he does not want to be so confused by racing duties.

NEW TENOR MAKES SUCCESSFUL DEBUT

Walter E. Stewart, a new tenor discovered by Vincent V. Hubbard, Boston's successful vocal teacher, made his Boston debut last night at the Hotel Vendôme, under the auspices of the Father-Son Mothers' Club at a special concert in aid of child welfare.

Mr. Stewart was accompanied by Mary Larned Ely, a pianist of rare merit.

Mr. Stewart's program opened with a group of songs, "In the Time of Roses," by Reinhardt, "The Bitterness of Love," by Dahn, and "Inter me," by MacFadden, an aria, "Vesti la Giubba" (from "Pagliacci") by Leoncavallo and the aria "Spirito Gentile" from the opera, "La Favorita" by Donizetti. For an encore he sang a selection from the opera "The Girl of the Golden West" by Puccini.

Other artists were Alvin Schroeder, violinist, and Elizabeth Straton and J. Adelaide Whitten.

Mr. Stewart is possessed of an exceptionally clear tone of voice of exceedingly wide range. His selections were enthusiastically received by a small but select audience of music lovers who predicted that Boston will not fail to appreciate Mr. Stewart and accord him welcome hearing at his coming recitals. A group of students from the Emerson College of Oratory acted as ushers.

SLACKERS GET REPRIEVE FROM DAUGHTERTY

Attorney-General Recommends That Publication of Names Be Delayed

Washington, April 5.—The army of slackers who were due for exposure by the publication of official army records will receive a further stay possibly because of the belief of officials that there were strenuously included in the list the names of some who served honorably. Secretary of War Weeks' formal request of the Department of Justice for an opinion upon the legality of making the lists public today was given personal consideration by Attorney-General Daugherty.

Attorney-General Daugherty said he doubted that ample authority exists for publication of the lists. He knows the position that while the army authorities have exercised the utmost diligence in verifying the records, there still remains the probability that many names have been included through lack of information of the men enumerated.

"It would be a terrible thing to brand any man on that list as a slacker if that man gave his services in the war against the enemy," said the attorney-general.

"In my State of Ohio and in many other States, young men left the United States, joined Canadian or other allied troops and have performed heroic service. They may have been killed in action or their whereabouts may not be known. There is the possibility that many men in that class have unfortunately been placed upon these records."

MILITARY FUNERAL TO HONOR MAINE HERO

Purdum, Me., April 6.—Plans are being made for an imposing military funeral for Harold T. Andrews, first Maine boy killed in the war. His body reaches New York this week. He was the son of Principal W. W. Andrews of the Maine Grammar School, and a member of the United States Engineers.

disappear unless ship subsidies were granted to cover the difference in cost of labor on American and foreign vessels.

It is known in Boston that there is an element among the ship owners that hopes the unions will reject the new terms, so a fight may be begun for the open shop.

If the wage cuts are accepted, British seamen will receive the highest pay of any in the world, until, at least, the present British scale is revised.

Captain O'Donnell said that present wage agreements with officers in the American Merchant Marine would expire August 1, when they would be compelled to take a 25 per cent. reduction or fight.

Captain O'Donnell, besides being chairman of the wage scale committee, is marine expert for C. M. Sprague & Son, Boston.

Sharon, April 5.—Fire, sweeping over 500 acres of woodland on the shore of Lake Massadung, destroyed the summer cottage of Michael Quinn of South Boston, and threatened the Lake Shore Home for Boys, the Eliza, both Peabody House and the Eliza Memorial Home. Browns and extinguishers were used on the blaze by the Sharon firemen, who were later assisted by a pumping engine from Foxboro.

MERCHANDISE UP TO A STANDARD

The JOHN B. DONCHIAN SALE

$150,000 WORTH OF ORIENTAL RUGS

To Be Sold at Prices That Mean Two Rugs For Less Than the Former Price of One

Mr. Donchian recently returned from a tour of the capitals of Europe, where he purchased a remarkable collection of rugs, each one a treasure of design and workmanship. Only the depressed conditions that exist in European countries at the present time would make these rug owners desirous of selling their treasures at such ridiculously low prices.

These rugs were brought from the Orient years ago, where it is almost impossible to get this type of merchandise now, regardless of price.

Mr. Donchian will personally be in attendance the first few days of the sale, where he will be glad to meet his old Boston customers, to assist in selections and to give other valuable information regarding these rugs.

We shall be pleased to have you come in and examine this unusual collection, whether interested in the purchase of an Oriental rug or not.

Lighting Companies' Defeat Credit to Legislature

The defeat of the scheme to permit the gas and electric lighting companies to capitalize their premiums reflects credit upon the House of Representatives, its Speaker Young and Mr. Shattuck. This defeat is not only important because it saves an established policy of the State, calculated to protect the users of electricity and gas, but also because it shows the big business interests that they have mistaken the temper of the people who have recovered from the influence of war propaganda and anti-red hysteria much more quickly than these predatory big business interests believed it possible for them to recover.

But while the assault of the exploiting interests has been defeated at a vital point it has not yet been driven back along the whole front. The Legislature still has to deal with the scheme to legalize the use of saving banks depositors' money without their consent by the railroads for purchase of equipment.

This is the worst scheme of all. To take one's hard savings away from one without one's consent and to pour them down the rat-hole where the scoundrels of our bankrupt railroads languish today is plain piracy under the cover of law. It is not exceeded in boldness even by Morgan in the sack of Panama.

As the list of those who deserve credit for defeating the lighting companies' scheme is a long one we can mention only those to whom special praise belongs. They are Reed of Taunton, Nathan of Natick and Carey of Dorchester of the Senate, and Hull of Leominster, Silbert of Boston, Clark of Brockton, Brown of Everett, Frothingham of Lynn and Webster of Foxboro, of the House.

Attempt to Make U. S. Labor Hostile to Russia

How it must shame the British government to be caught red-handed forging a Russian newspaper for the purpose of quoting the forged articles against the Russian government at the very time that they were negotiating a treaty with the Russians.

How ashamed the American newspapers ought to feel that they have swallowed these forgeries and made them the basis of anti-Russian propaganda in this country.

No newspaper in America or anywhere else can excuse the publication of forged documents against Russia at this late day upon the ground that they cannot know when news articles are forged. While they cannot know positively that a given lie against Russia is a lie, yet they can have a strong suspicion when the same kind of a story is repeated day in and day out, month in and month out, for several years, and it never proves true. They have a reasonable ground to suspect the truth of a story about Russia which says that her people are in revolt, that her big cities have fallen to the rebels, that her workmen are disaffected, or that the government is maintaining its power by violence. If it were the first, the second, the third or the hundredth time that these stories had been published and later repudiated by events, there would be some excuse for it.

The latest turn of the anti-Russia propaganda is the charge that the Russian workmen are against the Russian government. That if anything is more ridiculous than the ridiculous lies that were propagated against the Russian government during the last three years. For the charge against the Russian government for three years has been that they have set up a dictatorship of the workmen, that it is a workmen and peasant government and that none of the other classes are allowed to have any power.

The plain object of this new line of propaganda is to give Mr. Samuel Gompers and the small group of machine leaders of the American Federation of Labor who support him a chance to betray with seeming decency American labor into support of the ill-treatment of Russian workmen by our government.

It is French labor and British labor and Italian labor which have prevented a good crusade of the Western nations against Russia, and the new propaganda is for the purpose of rendering labor either actively hostile to Russia or indifferent, and their attempt to make the American workmen believe that there can be a dictatorship of the workmen and peasants at the same time an oppression of workmen and peasants is an excellent illustration of the contempt in which the international bankers and the big business interests behind this anti-Russian propaganda hold the intelligence of the American workmen.

Dartmouth's Loss Is Gain for Technology

We are sorry that Dartmouth has lost Dr. Nichols. We congratulate the Massachusetts Institute of Technology upon her good fortune in obtaining the services of Dr. Nichols as her president. And if the opportunity for public service is greater at Technology than it is at Dartmouth, we are glad that Dr. Nichols has made the change.

He is a progressive educator, a man with an open mind who does not consider "whatever is right" and while not an innocent, if we are to judge from some of the public statements which have emanated from him, we should say that he does not hold sacred from criticism and from susceptibility of change any of the artificial institutions which have grown up either by the deliberate cultivation of men or like weeds, by the mere operation of time.

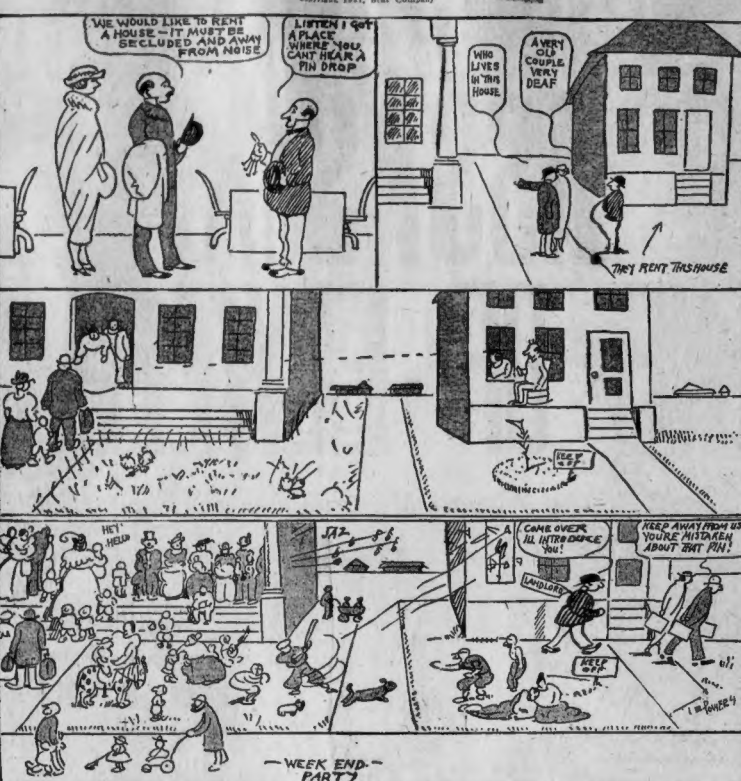

Governor Baxter Real Man

Governor Baxter of Maine seems to be a real man, a real leader of men, a real democrat spelled with a small "d," a man who knows what the public rights are, and who dares to maintain them in public office. He is rather a rare specimen. We only wish that we had more of them.

TRAGEDY OF A WIFE WHO NAGGED

Woman Who Wrecked Own Life and Brought Sorrow to Those She Loved Best
Makes Confession in Letter to Nellie Bly

By Nellie Bly

MORE deadly than a murderer, more fatal than an incurable disease is the nagger. In reviving the blue laws one should certainly renegeate the law for "Gossip." That is the name the nagger of early days bore. And the clear-headed, wise people of those times, who plaitly recognized evil and sternly insisted upon its punishment, took rigid precautions against the spread of gossip by passing strict laws of punishment.

The general custom was to fasten the nagger to the end of a board and give her a good ducking in deep and preferably cold, river or lake. I don't doubt this punishment by public ducking did much to bridle the deadly tongue of the nagger. And the benefit of humanity I would suggest that some of these restraining measures be revived. For nothing is more wrecking to life and health and capabilities than a nagger. Here is a letter from one who has seen the error of her ways:

Confession of Nagging Wife
"Dear Miss Bly—You publish the story of the woman who nagged? I am that woman. I may have a confession in deepest sorrow and penitence, and I write to you not only that I may ease my heart of the burden of my sins, but that other women may read and lay their lesson from me. 'I sometimes feel as if I must go upon a pilgrimage, preaching to the world the horrors and the tragedies which result from the unbribeled tongue.'"

"I could state that my nagging arose from my love. Thousands of times I have said so in the past; but now, with tears streaming down my face, and with the remorse of a sinner who can never be removed, I acknowledge that it was not love which made me nag. Had I been sensible and realized what love was, I should have tried only to have lived for the happiness of my husband and not to have devilled him continually while we were together with my nagging."

"I married when I was fifteen years of age. I knew I was pretty. Everybody told me so. And the picture of me at that time, and my eldest daughter, who is my living image, show me clearly how pretty I was, when I first became a bride."

"I was married to a man three times my age. I was romantic, but the greater fault lay with my mother, who was glad to see me marry a man with money. We were poor and my widowed mother was forced to work to support me, her only child. So she welcomed this chance of securing ease and comfort and luxuries for us both. "I was glad, too, I wanted all the pretty things a girl could have. I didn't want to work, and I longed for a life of ease. I wanted clothes to make me more beautiful, and I wanted some one to provide comfort for me and to shield me from worries and care. "Perhaps it was this marriage of selfishness on my part that bred the nagging spirit within me. If anything was denied me I soon learned that by nagging I could obtain it. "I don't imagine he had a very happy life with me, although he was very proud of my beauty and endured patiently and uncomplainingly my bitter and insulting tirades. My mother even came in for her share. She got the comfortable home and the dresses she sought through my nagging, but she did not have much happiness. For I was a tyrant with her just as I was with my husband. "Five years later my mother had gone to her long rest and I was a widow. My husband had died leaving a will which gave me the use of the income of half a million dollars during my life, the principal to become the property of my child and daughter at my death. "I was young and beautiful and free. I started out to enjoy life and to have every pleasure I wanted without having to nag anyone. My eyes were large and blue, and my hair was black crisp curls, and I was as slender as a sixteen-year-old girl, and as to this day, "Then, in the midst of all my joy, it came. Love! All of a sudden, without any wish on my part, or indeed, any desire or intention, I fell desperately and madly in love. I had not believed there was such a thing. The devotion I had received from men I calmly accepted as admiration for my pretty face, and I had never more any conception of the feeling that now possessed me, when I looked at the man I felt a warm glow spread over my entire body, and when I even accidentally touched his hand, or caught an admiring glance from his eye, delicious thrills swept over me. I hung on every word he said. And when I was alone I would search and search to find something—some remark of some word which would make me believe he cared. "Then, one day, with a crowd of friends we motored down to see the electric of Coney Island. When we got there the rest of the party suggested that we park the car, and I could enter my husband's absence from my sight. The moment he was gone I tortured myself with all sorts of fancies. I had him killed in all sorts of accidents. And he had loved me from the first moment, and wanted me, and I could not prevent his telling me he loved me just as I had him. But he dared not let me know because he was poor. And it was just to avoid and prevent his telling me he loved me that he kept him away from me. "We were married within a few days. And from the moment of my marriage I was the happiest and at the same time the unhappy creature the world ever saw. I couldn't enter my husband's absence from my sight. The moment he was gone I tortured myself with all sorts of fancies. I had him killed in all sorts of accidents. And he had loved me from the first moment, and wanted me, and I could not prevent his telling me he loved me just as I had him. But he dared not let me know because he was poor. And it was just to avoid and prevent his telling me he loved me that he kept him away from me. "The more he protected his love and devotion for me and me only, the more I accused him of false-ness. I wanted to hear him promise. I wanted him to tell me millions of times that he loved me and only me. And so I persecuted him every moment of the time we were together with my suspicions and jealousies so as to drain my joy at his hearing him swear his fidelity to me. "To Be Continued Tomorrow.

How Like the Sea

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

HOW like the sea, the myriad-minded sea,
Is this large love of ours; so vast, so deep,
So full of mysteries! It, too, can keep
Its secrets, like the ocean; and its free.
Free as the boundless main. Now it may be Calm, like the brow of some sweet child asleep.
Again its swelling billows surge and leap
And break in fulness of its ecstasy.

Each wave so like the wave which came before,
Yet never two the same! Imperative
And then persuasive as the cooling dove,
Encroaching ever on the yielding shore—
Ready to take, yet ready still to give—
How like the myriad-minded sea is love.

LOCATION DOES NOT CHANGE RACE

By Garrett P. Serviss

"CAN a race change in color and features without intermarriage?" asks "Mrs. B. R." who then goes on to illustrate her meaning in this way. "For instance a couple of the white race settling in China. Will their descendants eventually become Chinese in feature and coloring without marrying into the Mongolian race?"

I know of no evidence tending to suggest that one race of men would be changed into another race, essentially different in color and features, as a result of adopting the geographical environment of that other race. Without misrepresentation the descendants of white people living in Africa show no tendency to assume the characteristics of the negro race.

Certain Changes

It is true that certain surface changes in habits and ideas occur, but they go no deeper than does the darkening of the epidermis under the tanning effects of climate. The features remain the features of the white race, and the color remains the color of the white race, and the true negro blood is only temporary, disappearing with return to a northern clime.

So Caucasians transplanted to the land of Canaan, if in later years a mixture of blood takes place, do not acquire, as generation follows generation, the coloring of the outer corner of the eye which is so characteristic of the Chinese race, nor the peculiar yellow of the Asiatic skin, nor black, straight, long, coarse hair, circular in section, with a distinct "pith."

Difference in Hair

The white race has hair oval in section, with a tub, but no pith, variable in color, smooth and fine in texture, and tending to wave or curl, and these characteristics it retains within, regardless of climate. Probably the racial mark most readily changed, or concealed, by climatic color, is the hair. This varies considerably even within the limits of a single race. Some have delicate, wavy hair, and some have a reliable test of race, in Africa, the hair is straight, coarse, and merging into brown in some cases.

Features and anatomical peculiarities are more constant racial marks, and among these the shape of the skull is one of the most important. For these things are not subject, like the color of the skin, to more atmospheric influence.

EDUCATION EXPENSES IN BAY STATE

By P. P. Claxton,

U. S. Commissioner of Education.

MASSACHUSETTS has long held an enviable reputation for leadership in public school education and for the generous way in which it has supported its schools. Other States have followed the initiative of Massachusetts in the support of public schools have been comparatively small, but climes and towns have varied with each other in the liberality of their support.

It may be true that in recent years some of the other States have come to surpass Massachusetts in general interest in the public schools as the means of educating all of its people and in the per capita amount expended on the public schools. Yet her record in the support of education for all of its people is nothing in this article can be regarded as reflecting on Massachusetts' comparatively liberal and support of public education.

On the other hand, it is a fact that Massachusetts pays no little for public schools in comparison with other States. The figures serve to indicate how little the people of the United States as a whole care for this purpose.

Figures for the Years

The figures showing the amount expended for education for each of the fifty years from 1870 to 1919 inclusive are taken from the records in the United States Bureau of Education and are the least approximately correct. The State spent in 1870 $5,073,625 and increased the amount to $11,628,000 for the year 1919. The estimated total of the amounts is $460,221,214.

The estimated expenditure for 1920 is $47,252,587. For the year 1920, the people of Massachusetts paid into the federal treasury in local taxes, license profits and other taxes $153,022,562.16. Massachusetts' proportionate part of the national receipts for the year was $11,628,000, or 7.56 per cent of the total tax bill of more than $153,861,000, or $12,000,000 more than the actual amount spent. This varies considerably even within the limits of a single race. Some have delicate, wavy hair, and some have a reliable test of race, in Africa, the hair is straight, coarse, and merging into brown in some cases.

Features and anatomical peculiarities are more constant racial marks, and among these the shape of the skull is one of the most important. For these things are not subject, like the color of the skin, to more atmospheric influence.
